Two Oriental Songs
with Piano Accompaniment
by Leo Ornstein

Poems by Frederick H. Martens

Gazal
(Arab Love Song)

Tartar Lament

Price 75c each

Hustin
Carl Fischer New York
Chicago
Tartar Lament

Poem by FREDERICK H. MARTENS

Music by LEO ORNSTEIN

Lento e malinconico

Voice

Al-lah nods! And war-riors die. They fall as

Piano

fall the leaves of life, That from the Lote-tree flut-ter down, The tree that grows in Pa-ra-dis e a-bove! Ka-lin rode from the Ku-ma steppe. The white Tzar spoke. It was a command. Ka-lin rode to the field of bat-tle. He rode to the west with the sons of No-gai, rode a-way, no more to return! Never more his eye will see the grasses of the Kumá steppe, As they wave and bow in the breath of the wind!

Tempo I.

Al-lah nods! And warriors die. They fall as
fall the leaves of life, That from the Lote tree flutter down, The tree that grows in Paradise above rode from Ku-ma's steppe, And I must mourn, ah, I must mourn. His arm no more, as once, will hold me close. No more will his hand caress my hair! Far from Kumma's steppe he